

Cryostation Fiber Optic Feedthroughs	Doc-107
--------------------------------------	---------

An unused optical port can be converted to a feedthrough for a fiber optic. The fiber connector mates on the outside, while another fiber connector mates within the side tube. The fiber inside is thermally lagged and brought into the cold space of the sample chamber. The standard configuration has an FC connector on the inside and outside.

